- Admitted applicants who have reached the age of 30 on the day of the semester begin of the semester to be enrolled are automatically exempted from this obligation and do not have to enclose a health insurance certificate with their enrolment documents. But you will need health insurance for living in Germany.
- You have the choice between a statutory and a private health insurance.
- We recommend statutory health insurance, i.e. AOK' (ca. 108 Euros per month)
- 'Mawista' is a cheap alternative for private health insurance.
- When having private health insurance, you have to pay for the treatment upfront and get the money back from the insurance afterwards (however, there can be discussions when it comes to claiming the refunds)
- A change from a private to a statutory health insurance and vice-versa is only possible within the first 3 months of your studies or after graduation but not during your studies.
